After the latest round of Paris menswear shows wrapped up Sunday, June 26, the fashion world will start gearing up for haute couture, with a week of catwalk shows running July 3 to 7 in the French capital. The finest in the country's tailoring and expertise will take center stage in various prestigious locations in the city.

Yuima Nakazato will open the autumn/winter 2016-2017 haute couture shows, Sunday, July 3, at 2pm, with Valentino set to close proceedings on the garment side, July 6, 2016. As usual, jewelry collections will be presented on the final day, Thursday, July 7.
